and library et al., no error was found, the opinion being by Chief Justice Baldwin.

Mr. Hewitt and others are executors of the will of Henry Dwight Wheeler, who was born in North Stonington and later went to New York and became weathy. He built the Wheeler High school in North Stonington and endowed it with $100,000 and when he made his will in 1901 he left the school the sum of $100,000 and the residue of his estate. He died Sept. 13, 1906.

His niece, Louise Newton Birby, of Brooklyn, objected to the will on the novel grounds that the school could not take over so large an amount of money when its charter said it can only hold a fund of $100,000. In his will Mr. Wheeler said if the school could not take the money under its charter he ordered that the legislature be asked to amend the charter and this was done in accordance with his will.

If there was a period in which the executors had to hold the funds for the school to be made capable of taking over the money, then the income

Chairman John McHattie of the committee of arrangements introduced the speaker at the beginning and Mr. Beers held the unwavering attention of his audience for an hour and a half as he presented the story of the two Bible

A communication has been received by the officials of the celebration through Congressman Higgins, states Chairman E. A. Tracy of the executive committee, to the effect that President Tatt desires that there be no official dinner such as is planned to take place or Monday evening, July 5. This desire, Mr. Tracy said, will mean that the dinner planned for that night will be dropped from the programme. It was to have been a large affair with about two hundred present, but will now be given up.
